Creation/Evolution: Which is Science; Which is Myth?

7:30 PM, March 16, 2004, Totino Fine Arts Center, Rm. 115, Northwestern College

The vast majority of commentators accept one of two views on the subject of Creation and Evolution.

- ◆ Evolution is science; Creation is myth or religion.
- ◆ Both are religion; Neither is science.

Tom Willis, President of the Creation Science Association for Mid-America in Kansas City, will present his position which differs from both points of view. Creation is science; Evolution is myth or religion.

To develop his position he will present six scientific hypotheses that have been tested as thoroughly as the laws of motion. This should be interesting and informative for the whole family.

All meetings are free and open to the public. A free-will offering will be taken.

Creation Science Writing Contest

Have you been looking for an activity for your students? TCCSA is sponsoring a Creation Science Writing Contest for grades 1 through 12.

We want to help the next generation improve their skills of logic, reasoning, research and written communications.

All papers will be due May 15, 2004. Some may be reproduced by TCCSA with acknowledgment of the author's name and age.

There will be prizes and an opportunity for especially good reports to be presented by the author at a TCCSA meeting. www.tccsa.tc for information.

Coming up . . .

April 20 - Russ McGlenn, Update + The Secret Life and Times of Unborn Children

May 18 - Richard Broadberry, Genesis revealed in Ancient Chinese Characters

June 15 - Al Heitkamp, Extinction of Dinosaurs

Adventure Safaris

Each year our science fair students present new ideas and interesting ways of discovering God's handiwork in our lives and environment. These bright and resourceful youth are the engineers, scientists and leaders of the future. We are proud of them and want to encourage them in whatever endeavors they pursue that will bring honor and glory to the Creator. Well done, keep up the good work. You can find photos of this year's fair on our web site. As usual the kids did a superb job with their projects. Thanks to each one who participated and helped.

Adventure Safaris presents the Creator and His designs and laws to homeschool coops. Contact us if you are interested in receiving an excellent science education for your students. As a nonprofit organization, we are supported by our school work as well as by interested churches and individuals. All gifts made out to TCCSA are tax deductible. Designate what the gift is for.
